

A scientific event dedicated to remote sensing will be held in Belém, Brazil, on 4-8 November 2024, under the aegis of ISPRS (International Society for Photogrammetry and Remote Sensing) and SELPER (Sociedad Latinoamericana en Percepción Remota y Sistemas de Información Espacial).

The ISPRS-SELPER symposium, which is expected to attract more than 500 participants, has an international dimension with more than 30 countries involved in its preparation. It will cover a wide range of remote sensing related topics, ranging from space image acquisition and processing techniques (space missions, sensors, algorithms etc.), with sessions devoted to new missions (SWOT, Biomass etc.), to a wide variety of applications in Earth and planetary sciences, climate, environment and society, with particular focus on the Amazon and tropical environments.

If you are a public or private organisation engaged in the development or use of remote sensing methods, this event will provide you the opportunity to learn about the latest advances in this field and to promote your activities on an international scale. The success of this event depends on your active participation as a sponsor and/or exhibitor, and we hope that we can count on you.
